BIENNIAL REPORT
OF THE
COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

JULY 1, 1896 - JUNE 30, 1898.

To the County Commissioners, School Officers and Teachers of Cook County, Illinois:

I have the honor to present the following report of the condition of the schools of Cook County, with statistics concerning the same, for the two years ending June 30, 1898. Besides the business transactions, and statements of financial condition of each township in Cook County, by districts, the report contains :

1. Cuts of school buildings erected in the past two years.
2. A statement of the receipts and expenditures of the County Superintendent of Schools for two years.
3. A report of fines and forfeitures received from Clerks of Courts and Justices of the Peace.
4. The total population, in separate districts and townships, the number under 21 years of age and the number between 6 and 21.
5. The number of children and teachers in public and in private schools.
6. The equalized assessed valuation and rate of tax levied in each district.
7. A classified statement of receipts and expenditures of each district and township.
8. Maps of school districts and townships.
9. The names and post-office addresses of all school officers.
10. Tables showing a comparison of statistics.
11. A list of the names and addresses of the teachers of the County for the year 1898-9.
12. A special report of the County Superintendent regarding School Records, Ungraded Schools, Teachers' Meetings with Syllabuses for Elementary Science and Bird Study, Chicago Normal School, Teachers' Institutes, Books for School Libraries, Arithmetic, Kindergartens and Cook County Superintendents.

BUSINESS AND RECORDS OF SCHOOL DISTRICTS.

A determined effort has been made by the County Superintendent and his assistants during the past year to make the transaction of business connected with the schools conform to the law. In this endeavor they have in most instances had the cordial cooperation of the Boards of Directors and Boards of Education and Boards of Trustees. Investigation has shown that in very many of the districts of Cook County the business of the district has not been transacted at meetings of which all of the Directors have been notified: also that the record of the business transactions of the districts has been very inadequately kept and in not a few instances has not been kept at all. These conditions were in general not the result of any wish to do unlawful acts but simply because of a lack of understanding of the law or of an indisposition to take the trouble to conform to it. The following circulars were prepared and delivered to each of the Boards of Directors by either Mr. Farr or Mr. Downey in person, and time was taken for full explanation of any point not understood. A great improvement has resulted in the manner of transacting the school business and of keeping the school records throughout Cook County.

DIRECTIONS FOR MAKING DISTRICT SCHOOL RECORDS.

Directors should hold regular meetings at least once each month during school sessions. Special meetings may be called by the president or by the other two members. All directors must be notified of all meetings. Two make a quorum to do business, but if the other director has not been notified of the meeting, the business will be illegal.

A full account of each meeting must be kept in a permanent record book and the proceedings of each meeting must be signed by the clerk and the president.

A form of report of meeting will be found below. Note the following points:

1. Kind of meeting (regular or special), with date and place.
2. Names of directors present.
3. Minutes of last meeting read and approved.
4. All motions involving expenditure of money must be voted on by roll call, and the names for and against must be entered in the minutes. Other motions do not require a roll call.
5. Every transaction of the meeting must be entered in the record.
6. Record must be signed by clerk and president after it has been approved.
7. A separate record of all orders with dates, to whom drawn and for what services or material, must be kept.
8. The entire record book must be submitted to the township treasurer for examination and approval twice each year—on the first Mondays of April and October. It must be submitted oftener if he calls for it.

9. No teacher's order can be issued until the schedule has been submitted to and examined by the directors. Special importance attaches to the last schedule of the year on account of the annual report.

10. Every item of business here referred to is required by the law of Illinois to be performed in the manner indicated.

SPECIMEN REPORT OF A MEETING OF SCHOOL DIRECTORS.

A regular meeting of the Board of Directors of District No. 10, Palatine, Illinois, was held at the school house, August 3, 1898.

Present, Messrs. J. L. Smith, R. O. Johnson and R. L. Pahlman.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

A motion was made by Mr. Pahlman, seconded by Mr. Smith, that Miss Jennie Jones (or John Brown) be employed to teach the school in this district for the term of eight months at $50 per month.

Ayes, Smith, Johnson, Pahlman.

Noes, none.

It was moved by Mr. Smith and seconded by Mr. Pahlman that the school begin the first Monday in October.

Carried.

It was moved by Mr. Johnson, seconded by Mr. Smith, that the seats in the school house be re-arranged, and that slate blackboard be placed across the south end of the school house.

Ayes, Johnson, Smith.

Noes, Pahlman.

The President declared the motion carried.

It was moved by Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Johnson, that the clerk of the school board be authorized to engage a carpenter to rearrange the seats, and that he be authorized to get bids on the blackboard referred to and report at the next meeting.

Carried.

It was moved by Mr. Pahlman, seconded by Mr. Johnson, that the Board meet regularly on the first Monday of each month at eight o'clock P. M. Carried.

Board adjourned.

(Signed)

J. L. SMITH, President.

R. L. PAHLMAN, Secretary.

In addition to the foregoing the following explicit directions of the School Law, which in very many cases are overlooked, were sent out to all members of school boards.

To the School Officers of Cook County:

So many complaints have come to the office of the County Superintendent during the past year that members of Boards of Directors, members of Boards of Education, Township Trustees and School Treasurers have been interested either in furnishing labor, furnishing material or other contract with the school districts or townships of which they are officers that I have deemed it advisable to set forth explicitly the law in regard to these matters, and will ask that this circular be read at the next meeting of the board to which the recipient belongs.

Section 10, Article 16 of the School Law reads as follows:

"Trustees of schools, school directors, members of boards of education, or other school officers performing like duties, shall receive no pecuniary compensation, but they shall be exempt from road labor and from military duty during their term of office."

Section 23 of Article 5 reads as follows:

"No director shall be interested in any contract made by the board of which he is a member."

Section 24 of Article 5 reads as follows:

"No director shall be interested in the sale, proceeds or profits of any book, apparatus or furniture, used, or to be used, in any school in this state, with which he may be connected."

It must be understood that wherever the word "director" is used in any of the laws quoted in this circular said laws are equally applicable to members of boards of education, members of boards of trustees, or the township treasurer.

It has been assumed by certain interested parties that Section 24 of Article V. allows a member of the board of directors or board of education to deal in school supplies, selling the same to children attending the school of which he is an officer. This, however, is not the case. The following interpretation of this section was received from the State Department within a few days:

"A book seller may be elected as a school director or as a member of a board of education, but when he is elected and accepts the office he cannot lawfully sell school books or apparatus to pupils of his district. Both the constitution and the statutes of this state forbid any school officer to be interested in the selling of any books or apparatus to be used in the schools with which he is connected."

Section 25 of the same article fixes the following penalty:

"Any person offending against the provisions of the two preceding sections shall be liable to indictment, and, upon conviction, shall be fined in any sum not less than twenty-five dollars ($25), and not more than five hundred dollars ($500), and may be imprisoned in the county jail not less than one nor more than twelve months, at the discretion of the court."

The interpretation of these statutes is not left for school officers. The Supreme Court has passed upon them, as the following cases will show:

1. Directors must not be Interested in Contracts. A very explicit interpretation of this clause has been given by our supreme court in School Directors v. Parks, 85 Ill., 338. In this case suit was brought to recover from Parks two sums of money which had, it was alleged, been paid him on orders drawn by the other two members of the board for labor in repairing the school house and for fuel furnished while he was director. The court held that the statute then in force—it is the same now—absolutely prohibited a director from being interested in any contract made by the board of which he was a member. This embraces every contract whether express or implied, by virtue of which money can be drawn from the treasurer; and it cannot be evaded by appropriations or payments from the treasurer for labor performed, or materials furnished for the benefit of the district, on the pretext that they were performed or furnished without any contract, but, being beneficial to and enjoyed by the district, should be paid for as a matter of justice. Both the letter and the spirit of the law forbid that directors shall, in anywise, whether directly or indirectly, openly or covertly, become interested in demands or claims, originating while they are directors, to be satisfied by payments from the funds of their districts; and this construction must be rigidly enforced by the courts, without regard to the moral or equitable considerations that may urge a different policy in particular cases.

2. Directors may not be paid for Services. Except that the director who is clerk of his board may be paid for his clerical services, both directors and trustees are forbidden by this clause of the law to draw pay for any services they may render the district and the township whose officers they are.

3. A Director may not be a Teacher. The director may not be employed to teach in his district.

4. Employment of a Minor Child of a Member of the Board. The school board may not employ the minor child of one of its members as a teacher, if the relations between the parent and the child are such that the parent may lawfully claim the child's wages.

5. Bonds bought by a Member of the Board. A member of the school board can not enforce the payment of bonds issued to him while a member even when there is no question that the bonds were taken with no dishonest intent and paid for in cash at par. (Hewett v. Board of Education, 94 Ill., 528.)

6. Lot sold to the Board and Money loaned it by a Member. Neither can payment be compelled for a lot sold the district for a school site by a director nor for money furnished, with which the school house has been built. (Directors v. Miller, 54 Ill., 338.)

The matter thus far in this circular has been taken verbatim from Bateman's Common School Decisions. It will be seen that directors are absolutely prohibited from rendering any services to the school district for which they shall receive compensation with the single exception of the clerk who may be paid for his clerical services and for that only. That is, he may be paid for keeping the records of the board of which he is a member and for no other service whatever. It is no more lawful for him to be paid for taking the census than it is for painting the school house or furnishing fuel. The language of the decisions quoted is very plain and does not tolerate any kind of evasion. Any member of a board of directors or board of education or board of trustees who has received payment from a Township Treasurer for alleged services or material furnished the school district of which he is a member may be made to refund whatever money has been received, as was done in the case quoted in the 85 Ill., and in addition he is subject to the penalty under indictment provided for in Section 25 of Article 5, and this under prosecution of any citizen of the State of Illinois.

School orders should be drawn only in favor of persons furnishing labor or material and each order should say explicitly for what labor or material it is drawn. No order can be drawn in favor of a minor child of any member of the board of directors or board of education.

Another matter of great importance in this connection is found in Section 19 of Article 5 and reads as follows:

"No official business shall be transacted by the board except at a regular or special meeting."

The significance of this clause lies in the fact that any business transacted even by a majority of a board of directors or board of education, unless at a regular or special meeting of which all the members have been notified, is utterly void. It makes no difference what this business is. In support of this statement I quote the following decision of the supreme court:

"Business to be transacted at Meetings. (This clause is of special significance.) Members of a school board, acting individually, can bind neither the board nor the person with whom they attempt to contract. An agreement by members of a school board, acting in their individual capacity, to purchase apparatus, etc., from another person, and to ratify same at the next regular meeting, is contrary to public policy and void. (McCortle v. Bates, 29 O., 418; Doyle v. Gill, 59 Wis., 518; Currie v. District, 35 Wis., 163; Andrews v. District, 37 Wis., 96; Stewart v. Directors, 24 Ill., App., [Smith], 229).

The fact that articles, purchased by one or more of the directors without authority of the board, have been used by the school does not amount to a ratification of the purchase or impose upon the district any obligation to pay for them. (Johnson v. School District, 67 Mo., 319).

An order not authorized, or allowed, or executed at a legal meeting is void. (Mincer v. School District, 27 Kas., 253).

The action of a majority of a school district board will not bind the district, without notice to or participation therein of the other member. (People v. Peters, 4 Neb., 254).

It is best to follow the letter of the law in all school transactions. Any other course is almost certain sooner or later to lead to difficulties. A copy of this circular has been sent to each township treasurer in Cook County with instructions regarding the payment of any order drawn in conflict with the law.

A copy of the School Law, including the additions for 1897, may be had on application at this office.

Respectfully submitted,

ORVILLE T. BRIGHT,

County Superintendent of Schools.

907 The Temple,
Chicago, Nov. 1, 1897.

OFFICE OF COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS,
907 THE TEMPLE.

CHICAGO, Ill., February 18, 1898.

My Dear Sir:

I quote from the Illinois School Law, edition 1896-1898, recently received from the State Superintendent, under the topic, "Some Principles of the Illinois School Law," which have been laid down by late decisions of the Supreme Court and by school enactments of the Fortieth General Assembly, or which are held by the State Department under advice of the Attorney General.

From page 128, under "Elections," the following is taken:

First. Eligibility for Election to the School Offices in Illinois.

"Any person, male or female, who is at least twenty-one years of age, who can read and write in the English language, and who has resided in the State one year next preceding the election or appointment, is eligible to any school office.

"If the judges of a district election are fully satisfied that the person elected as director is ineligible because he cannot read and write, they are justified in refusing to certify to his election. Such a case would necessitate a new election."

Second. Judges of School Elections.

"All judges and clerks of school elections should be sworn in at or before the hour of opening the polls. Judges and clerks of school elections are not entitled to pay for their services, except in the few districts of the State which have adopted the special election law of 1885, and have in consequence, a board of election commissioners appointed by the County Court. These places are the cities of Chicago and East St. Louis, and the town of Cicero."

Both of these provisions are plain. In the second it will be seen that no matter whether judges and clerks of school elections are members of school boards or not they cannot be paid for their services from the public funds. It is not a question of what we may think as to the justice of this provision of the school law. It is unmistakable in meaning and the township treasurers under it must refuse to pay any orders drawn for such services. Understand that this is not the direction of the County Superintendent of Cook County but is the direction of the School Law of the State of Illinois. I may add that the soundness of the second opinion quoted above having been questioned, by a member of a school board, I submitted the question to both Hon. Orrin Carter, County Judge, and Robert S. Iles, County Attorney for Cook County. Both said emphatically that the position of the State Superintendent was well taken, and that so long as the law prohibits the payment of members of school boards for acting as judges of school elections, which is made a part of their duties, no other citizen can be paid for performing this service in their absence from the polls.

It is certainly no hardship for a patron of a public school to perform this light service of three or four hours once a year. In nine districts and towns out of ten it is performed cheerfully and without thought of compensation.

Yours truly,

ORVILLE T. BRIGHT,
County Superintendent.

In Section 19 and Article 4 is the following clause applying to Township Treasurers:

"It is made the duty of Township Treasurers to cause to have published in some newspaper published in the county an annual statement of the finances of the township as required by law."

If this statement were published in circular form the spirit of the law would be complied with and the effect of the publication would be much more pronounced, but in any case the law requires every Township Treasurer to publish this statement.

CIRCULAR TO TOWNSHIP TREASURERS.

My Dear Sir:

I inclose you a circular which I have mailed to every member of a Board of Directors or Board of Education in Cook County. I shall insist that the business of the boards be done according to the law and as your accounts must be audited in this office I feel it my duty to send you the following directions:

First. You will pay no order made out to any member of a Board of Directors or a Board of Education excepting the secretary who is a member of such board and then only for clerical services as laid down in this circular.

Second. You will not pay any school order drawn in favor of any member of a board even if he be secretary, or to any minor child of such member for taking the census of the district or performing any other services for the district than the one mentioned.

Third. You will not pay any order drawn in favor of any member of a Board of Directors or Board of Education for furnishing supplies for school use.

Fourth. Any order, drawn upon the Township Treasurer by any school board should state distinctly upon the face of the order for what it is drawn and this statement should be specific and under no general topic as "repairs," "supplies" etc., but should state what the repairs are and what the supplies are. Unless this statement is made the order should not be paid.

Fifth. You will in no case pay an order for services as teacher unless the person to whom the order is given holds a Cook County certificate in force at the time the services were rendered.

Sixth. The statute seems to make no provision whatever for the payment of judges of election. I shall look fully into this matter taking legal advice from the County Attorney and the County Judge and also from the State Department including the Attorney General, and will send you notice in regard to it before the spring elections.

Yours very truly,

O. T. BRIGHT,

County Superintendent.

On the 24th day of October, 1898, the Supreme Court of Illinois rendered a decision in regard to text books in which the following principles were enunciated:

First. That school books cannot be changed oftener than once in four years by boards of education (or by boards of directors). All changes occurring before the expiration of that time being illegal.

Second. That copy books are text books within the meaning of the statute and hence cannot be changed oftener than once in four years, the same as all other text books.

Section 26, Article 5 of the School Law reads as follows:

"At the annual election of directors, the directors shall cause a copy of the Township Treasurer's report of the financial condition of the district provided by law to be posted upon the front door of the building where such election is held."

In Section 10, Article 6, the following is laid down as one of the duties of the board of education:

"To annually prepare and publish in some newspaper or in pamphlet form a report of the number of pupils instructed in the year preceding, the several branches of study pursued by them and the number of persons between the ages of 12 and 21 unable to read and write, and the receipts and expenditures of each school, specifying the source of such receipts and objects of such expenditures."

The objects of these sections, as one can readily see, is to inform the voters and taxpayers of the condition of their schools and the manner in which moneys are expended. They certainly have a right to this information so far as indicated in the statutes quoted.

SCHOOL APPARATUS.

Several times during the past five years I have addressed the directors and members of school boards on the necessity for great care in the selection of apparatus. I have also referred to this matter in two biennial reports. Very generally school officers have met the suggestions of the superintendent in the spirit in which they were given, and I think it is safe to say that during the past two years less money has been wasted in the purchase of worthless charts and other so-called apparatus, than in any two years for a long period before. Still there are many members of school boards who have not been able to withstand the plausible arguments of traveling venders of apparatus, while large numbers of the schools are going on without libraries or suitable supply of blackboards. I can offer no new argument in this matter, but append the last circular sent to district officers and earnestly urge them to give this subject the most careful consideration.

To the Members of Boards of Directors and Boards of Education of Cook County:

GENTLEMEN—You will pardon me for addressing you for the third time regarding the purchase of so-called apparatus to be used in schools. You will pardon me, also, for speaking very plainly in regard to this matter, and I do this because I have been misrepresented in regard to certain charts, arithmetic machines, etc., etc., it having been claimed by agents that I have given recommendations for the articles which they wish to sell.

In regard to arithmetic charts, I have never seen an arithmetic chart, or any piece of apparatus for teaching arithmetic, for which I would give one dollar as payment for its usefulness in school. I have never recommended any chart of this kind whatever, nor, in fact, any other chart, but have repeatedly protested against their purchase for school use because the teachers cannot use them. The fact of it is that there are hundreds of them standing in the school houses of Cook County to-day gathering dust simply because they are of no practical use whatever. I know that in many cases directors have felt hurt because teachers have neglected to use what they have purchased, but it is only because they cannot use it. Most of the articles referred to are not made for school use, they are simply made to sell to the directors, and generally on the grossest misrepresentation. Moreover, even if they were useful in school, the prices charged for them are two or three times what they would be worth. I was in a little country school only yesterday where there were three charts of various kinds; no one of which is ever used in the school. The three cost about $80. The same thing is true of scores of other schools in Cook County. At the same time, in this school, there is no blackboard fit to use, and not a book belonging to the district of any kind whatever. This is certainly a terrible waste of money raised by taxation.

Another case. A certain country district has two school houses. The only book belonging to the district is a piece of an old dictionary. This summer the directors of this district paid two hundred dollars for two sets of maps, seven in each set.

Slate blackboard, 3 feet wide, may be purchased in Chicago to-day on board cars, for  $12\frac{1}{2}$  cents per square foot;  $3\frac{1}{2}$  feet wide for  $13\frac{1}{2}$  cents; 4 feet wide for  $14\frac{1}{2}$  cents. The money put in a single worthless chart would place this splendid blackboard in all available places in the school room, and the exorbitant price paid for the maps referred to would buy a splendid library after paying for a good set of maps. Every school house should have maps, but no set of maps ever made is worth to a country school more than \$25. The paying of one hundred dollars, or even \$50, for any set of maps is a terrible waste of money. Every school should have a globe. An excellent globe may be purchased for from \$2.50 to \$5. Every school should be furnished with a library. The money which has been wasted for worthless charts and so-called apparatus, would furnish a splendid library for every country school in Cook County, and also a sufficient number of books for supplementary reading. These are what the teachers imperatively need.

RIVERSIDE PUBLIC SCHOOL.

CHARLES F. WHITTLESEY, Architect

Will not the directors and members of the boards of education give this matter their careful thought? Will they not take the advice of the teachers, who are vitally interested in their schools, rather than be influenced by the talk of agents who pocket at least half of the money paid for their wares? The real welfare of the schools, the best interests of the children, call for books which may be read in connection with the studies, and for a plentiful supply of blackboard as an aid to intelligent teaching.

I beg to assure you, gentlemen, that I have only the interests of the children at heart in writing this circular, and hope you will receive it in the same kindly spirit with which it is sent.

Yours very truly,

ORVILLE T. BRIGHT,
County Superintendent of Schools.

SCHOOL IMPROVEMENTS.

The cuts of school buildings presented in this report are all of structures which have been finished or placed under way during the past two years, with the exception of the Thornton Township High School, which will be built during the coming year. It is with great gratification that I look over the improvements among the school buildings of Cook County during the past seven years. Almost seventy-five per cent. of the present graded school buildings of Cook County have been built within that time, and most of the remainder have undergone greater or less improvement. Among the twenty-five per cent., not indicated as new since 1891 in the following lists, many were completed just prior to that time, as at Morgan Park, Western Springs, East Prairie, River Forest, La Grange Park, La Vergne, and several buildings at Oak Park. Schools having two or more rooms are indicated in the following list of Cook County villages:

In general the village school houses are well built and well arranged, and many of them are beautiful. In the majority the heating, lighting and ventilation are excellent. Not to exceed six or eight are a positive discredit to the villages containing them. Some of the latter will soon be replaced by new and modern buildings.

Not so much can be said of the country school houses in which are the ungraded schools, although among them rebuilding has been considerable.

The following table shows the number of these buildings by townships:

Improvement has been most marked in the replacing of worn-out pine floors with maple, in substituting slate blackboards for old wooden ones, and in adding greatly to the blackboard surface. In very many cases the rooms have been entirely re-arranged to carry out the suggestions of the superintendent, and the effectiveness of the schools has been greatly improved thereby. Many of them have been repainted and in a few the walls have been papered. Gratifying as is the improvement in the country schools there is still very much to be done. The school yards in which one finds trees are the exception, as are the schoolrooms in which there are tasteful pictures. The cheerless aspect of the majority of country schools is unexplainable. At very slight expense, and with small expenditure of time and labor, trees might be planted which would soon make the grounds beautiful and comfortable instead of bare and forbidding. A tasteful schoolhouse in a pretty yard well supplied with trees, grass and flowers and suitable fence is certainly an important element in the education of children, and when the interior of the schoolhouse is correspondingly tasteful, when it has painted or papered walls, well arranged furniture, artistic pictures, a library well supplied with books suitable for the children to read, the schoolhouse and its surroundings become by far the most potent influence in the education of the child,—the teacher alone excepted. I cannot go into the details of this topic at present but urge its consideration upon school officers and school teachers most earnestly. It will be my aim during the present term of office to push forward this matter of school improvement, and I feel sure that I shall have the co-operation of the teachers of the county, and that with their co-operation the interest of school officers and parents may be secured. If this can be done the next four years will bring about a wonderful change in the country schools of Cook County.

In the matter of schoolhouse adornment, however, most of the village schools also are sadly deficient. I hope in the near future to see generally established in the villages of Cook County, Art Leagues similar to that which has been in existence in Riverside for the past three or four years. An association of citizens has placed within the school beautiful pictures. They are adding to the number each year. My impression is that these pictures are the property of the association, and that they are loaned to the schools. I know also that pictures are frequently loaned from the homes of the parents. What could be better than this? The interest of the parents is secured for the school, and the parents and children are together interested in the study of reproductions of great works of art. So far as libraries are concerned many books have been placed in the schools during the past two years, but the work goes forward altogether too slowly. It seems to be reasonable that the thing most needed in the education of children is plenty of books. This being the case there should certainly be an appropriation by the Board of Directors or Board of Education for library books each year. Books for supplementary reading have become an absolute necessity in good teaching. For the country schools there have been bought and furnished for supplementary reading by the office of the county superintendent from 1,500 to 2,000 volumes during the past three or four years. The avidity with which children receive and read these books is delightful, and the manner in which they wear them out without abusing them, that is simply through legitimate use, is more delightful still. Many schemes have been devised by the teachers to raise money for libraries, but all told, they are inadequate. There is but one just and right thing to do in this matter, that is for the property in Cook County, which is taxed for school purposes, to furnish money to buy the books which the children need in the schools, whether library books or text books. Until the school officers and patrons of the schools can be educated to this belief, and until they act in accordance with it, the schools will never be in a satisfactory condition. The proper relations between the schools and the homes cannot be established except through the medium of books.

General Suggestions for Country School House.

The following general suggestions, to accompany the preceding floor plan, are offered for an effective country school house. Any who contemplate building or altering school houses are cordially invited to confer with the Superintendent as to plan of arrangement.

A. The girls' wardrobe should be separate from that of the boys'.

B. The teacher's desk should be in the opposite end of the room from the entrance.

C. This end of the room should have no windows.

D. The pupils' desks should face that of the teacher of course.

E. The blackboard should extend across the end opposite the entrance, and the entire sides between the windows. It should be four feet wide and twenty-four inches from the floor. The best blackboard is the cheapest, and the best is the natural slate. In the best modern teaching, plenty of good blackboard is absolutely essential, and it must be within the reach of the little children.

F. A maple floor is the cheapest in the long run.

G. There should be no platform in the school house.

H. A shield should protect the children from the direct heat of the stove.

I. There should be at least one extra chair for the directors when they visit the school.

J. A fresh air conductor should open into the room underneath the stove.

K. Ventilators to remove foul air should be built adjacent to the chimney, as shown in the plan on preceding page.

TEACHERS' MEETINGS.

The potent means of improvement for teachers in the work, are:

1. The visiting of schools by superintendents.
2. The visiting of other schools by teachers.
3. Attendance upon teachers' meetings, including Institute and Summer schools.

4. The reading of carefully selected educational books and a very limited reading of educational papers. (The great bulk of the matter printed in the latter is rubbish. There are a few excellent journals of education.)

5. Regular and persistent course of reading or study, besides that required in preparation for daily recitations.

6. Thinking and planning.

To No. 6, the most important of all, should be given at least fifty per cent. of the time spent in correcting children's papers. Frank Hall said: "Teachers, instead of 'sitting up nights' to correct errors, should sit up in the daytime to prevent them."

Space will not permit a discussion of each of these topics. I shall briefly indicate the plan of the teachers' monthly meetings, which are held eight times during the year, beginning with October. A general meeting, with formal address for all county teachers, is held at 10:15 A. M. The attendance ranges from four hundred to seven hundred. For the morning meetings during 1897-8 the addresses and speakers were as follows:

October.—"The Cost of an Idea." Jenkin Lloyd Jones.

November.—"The Unity of School Work." Arnold Tompkins.

December.—Fifteen minute addresses:

"The Parent a Factor in School Work." Charles S. Cutting.

"The Kindergarten in Social Settlements." Graham Taylor.

"Need of Books Among the Poor." Mrs. Harriet Van Der Vaart.

"The Spirit of the Christmas Time." O. T. Bright.

At the close of this meeting a collection was taken to help in support of the kindergarten at the Commons and to place a library in Neighborhood Settlement. It amounted to $210. Later the children in the Haven School, at Evanston, and in the school at Western Springs, furnished Christmas presents for all the children connected with the Chicago Commons Kindergarten, at least one hundred in number.

January.—"The Cost of a Fool." Jenkin Lloyd Jones.

February.—"The Teacher a Patriot." Dr. Emil G. Hirsch.

March.—"The Recitation as a Factor in Education." Arnold Tompkins.

April.—Bird Day:

“Songs of Birds.” Rev. Geo. B. Pratt.

“Our Kinsfolk in Feathers.” Mrs. Sara A. Hubbard.

“Birds and Bonnets.” Miss Cordelia Kirkland.

“How to Find Birds ” Frank E. Sanford.

May.—“The Passing of the Spaniard in the Americas.” Charles W. Seymour.

The April meeting resulted in the arrangement of a capital finding list for birds, by Mr. Frank E. Sanford. The list is published in full a few pages farther on.

The afternoon sessions of the county meetings is given up to the teachers of ungraded schools. This meeting continues from half past one to half past three. The first forty-five minutes of each session has been occupied in learning songs which may be taught to the children. This work has been under the supervision of Miss Elizabeth Nash. Usually the music for the day is printed upon the mimeograph for the use of the teachers. The words are printed in pamphlet form for teachers and pupils. It is a common occurrence for children from the country schools to attend the meetings in order to get the songs at first hand. In all at least two hundred of the choicest songs ever written for children have been selected by Miss Nash and most of them have been taught to the teachers. The effect of these songs upon the schools and upon the homes of the children is incalculable.

The last hour of each meeting is given to informal round table discussions of whatever topic may be before the meeting. It has been the custom of the present County Superintendent to agree upon a subject with the teachers and then to discuss it for a series of meetings, oftentimes running through the entire year. For the school year 1895-6 the topic was educative seat work for little children in the country schools. Although the results of the discussions upon this topic were not formulated, the effect upon the schools was very marked, the combined results of all of the teachers having been placed at the disposal of each. The subject was not exhausted. The Superintendents and the teachers found from an analysis of the situation that they had everything to learn on this topic. The great aim was to provide constructive work for little children to take the place of “sitting still,” and the everlasting copying on slates. Two school years have elapsed since and we have again returned to the subject for 1898-9, three meetings having been held already. We find the teachers vastly more intelligent upon the topic than they were before and we shall expect at the close of the year to put valuable matter into print regarding this most interesting and important subject.

For the year 1897-8 the discussion throughout the year was on program of recitations for the country schools. It was not the purpose of the Superintendent to make even a model program nor a suggestive one. The purpose was to give thorough discussion to the branches to be taught in country schools and to determine approximately the relative value of these studies to country children, and the proportion of school time to be given to each. A program of recitation to be of any value to a teacher would necessarily be the result of a study of her own peculiar conditions. The line of discussion is indicated by the following topics prepared for the discussion by the Superintendent.

Program of Recitations for Country Schools.

- a. First consideration, subjects to be taught and their relative importance. Modifications in particular cases.
- b. Here are the usual subjects—reading, writing, spelling and arithmetic—these always in all schools.
Language Lessons—supposedly English—are in almost every school, but a large part of them are mere shadows.
Geography in most schools; U. S. History, in one form or other, in 75 or 80 per cent. of schools.
Elementary science or observation lessons, more or less, in a majority of schools. In many cases extremely less. Singing quite general. Drawing here and there.
- c. First in importance in Cook County Schools, or any other schools in this country, is the English Language. Nobody can question this when we consider its use and its treasures of literature. It stands thus:

ENGLISH.

1. Talking.
2. Composition (oral).
3. Reading.
4. Writing.
5. Spelling.
6. Composition (written).
7. Literature.
8. Grammar (science of language).
9. Talking well. Saying in good English something worth the hearing. What is worth the hearing?

d.

OBSERVATION IN NATURE.

1. Phenomena—cause and effect—usefulness—function.
2. English—talking—composition.

3. English—writing—composition.
4. What about the weather records?

e.

ARITHMETIC.

1. Recitations, mental and oral, 80 per cent.
  2. Written, slates and paper, 20 per cent.
  3. The facts of number developed and memorized—at once.
  4. The relations of numbers—problems.
  5. English—talking.
  6. English—reading.
  7. English—writing.
- } 50 per cent. of motive in Arith. recitations.

f.

GEOGRAPHY.

1. Home Geography—Farr's syllabus.
2. Reading—text book—other books.
3. What do children do when they "study geography?"
4. The recitation. Teacher with book. Teacher without book.
5. The use of maps.
6. English—reading—talking—writing.

g.

U. S. HISTORY.

1. History stories. History text books. Other material.
2. Aim or motive.
3. Use of maps.
4. English. Reading with conversation and use of maps.
5. English. Reciting with maps.
6. English. Writing with illustrative maps.

h.

SPELLING.

1. What shall the children spell?
2. Preparation—studying—copying.
3. Does the reading help the spelling? Should it?
4. Uses of oral spelling.
5. Writing single words. Sentences.
6. How prevent misspelling?
7. Shall there be instruction in recitation in spelling?

i.

SINGING.

1. What shall the children sing?
2. When shall they sing?
3. How shall they sing?
4. What shall the teacher do while they are singing?
5. Who shall start it? How?

j.

DRAWING.

1. What can the teacher of an ungraded school do in drawing? Discussion.

What if the teacher cannot sing?

What if the teacher cannot draw?

What if the teacher cannot write?

What if the teacher cannot read?

The first fact impressed by the discussion was that the first minute of the school day beginning at nine o'clock should count for something in the day's work, and that if the first fifteen minutes were employed to the very best advantage there would be little danger of waste in any part of the six hours. Another thing fully agreed upon was that the very first part of the day should be devoted to the little children and that the general opening exercises of whatever nature should be very brief. Further than this that the recitation periods of little children should be short and frequent, and that teachers are in duty bound to give them their fair share of the school time. At the close of this discussion an attempt was made to indicate in a most general way a just division of the six hours among the several studies which might possibly be found in a country school. The following figures which were very unanimously agreed to, are given not to indicate any cast-iron rule laid down for the formation of programs but to show in a very general way one trend of the discussion. Three hundred and sixty minutes of time with thirty minutes out for recesses, leaves 330 minutes for recitation work of one kind or another, it being understood that the recitation is a mutual affair and that oftentimes the teacher is studying the lesson with the children as a part or as a whole of any one recitation. With proper correlation of studies no figures can give an idea of the amount of time any one branch receives in school. Notice what is said about English in the preceding topics for discussion.

General division of time:

General exercises..15 minutes.	Geography.....30 minutes.
Singing .....15 minutes.	History.....30 to 40 minutes.
Drawing .....15 minutes.	English .....30 to 40 minutes.
Writing .....20 minutes.	Arithmetic .....60 minutes.
Spelling .....20 to 30 minutes.	Reading .....85 minutes.

Aside from the meetings already referred to there have been held section meetings among the country schools, the same as in the previous four years. The plan of these meetings has not been changed from that already described in a former biennial report. From eight to twelve teachers, meeting in one country school, listen to the exercises of the forenoon which are held strictly in accordance with the regular program. In the afternoon the program of exercises is discussed and each recitation receives attention. The discussions are perfectly free, the teacher conceding that a public school recitation is public property and that in giving the recitation she is simply placing the topic before the meeting from the discussion from which she will derive equal benefit with the rest.

(Republished.)      DISTRICT FOUR, LYONS, PUBLIC SCHOOL.      A Model Two-Room School.      G. W. ASHBY, Architect.

School material in the way of simple apparatus, books, etc., is usually taken to these meetings by the assistant superintendents and they have conducted them in a masterly way. No other feature of our work has been of more genuine value than these country school meetings.

In all of the meetings spoken of, and in the teachers' institute as well, a determined effort has been made to unite the home interests of the children with those of the school. The farm, its natural characteristics, its products and markets, its surroundings and its home life, should in a large degree suggest the line of work which shall be carried on in the country school. It is certainly reasonable to say that the work in geography and elementary science must be based upon the observations of the children on their immediate surroundings. The work in English composition and in arithmetic may also be largely based upon these surroundings and the child's relation to them. The following outlines of work used in the county institute are suggestive of what we have been trying to do.

ELEMENTARY SCIENCE IN THE COUNTRY SCHOOLS, BY CHARLES W. FARR, COOK COUNTY INSTITUTE, AUGUST 30-SEPTEMBER 3, 1897. CHICAGO UNIVERSITY.

GENERAL PLAN.

Monday.—A general consideration of the farm as the center of interest. From this center there naturally arises an interest in minerals, plant life and animal life.

Tuesday—Minerals. Different kinds of soils, etc.

Wednesday—Plant life.

Thursday—Animal life.

Friday—Results—Observation. Knowledge, Expression, Enjoyment, Sympathy between the home and the school. To make country life stand for something. Responsibilities of the teacher.

This syllabus contains an outline of the work for each day of the institute. These outlines, together with the teacher's notes, will form a record of the work done in the five lessons. A list of books for study and reference will be submitted, and no book will be recommended unless it has the unconditional endorsement of authorities on elementary science. As far as practicable, these books will be brought to the sessions for examination.

It is expected that each teacher will bring to the lesson, Tuesday, a map of a farm. Let the farm represent conditions observed in Cook County.

FIRST LESSON—FARM LIFE—MONDAY—1897.

All country children are interested in the farm and its products. Surroundings simple. Necessities of life come, for the most part, directly. Soils are observed and their productions noticed. The geography of the farm is generally well known. Starting with these conditions the following line of work easily follows:

Have each child draw the farm he lives on. Do a great deal of this work: Draw farms, districts and township. Which fields are for pasture? Which for raising grain? Why? Where are the woods? Compare one farm in the district with another. Examine soils and locate the farm and field from which they are taken—gravel, sand, loam, vegetable mold, clay and rock.

This leads to a consideration of minerals. This line of work will be more fully developed in Tuesday's lesson.

Name and classify the crops raised. Name different things raised in the garden. Make collections of seeds, grains, grasses, vegetables, etc. Names and characteristics of the trees common in the district. In these general discussions the growth of plants will be suggested and a more specific study of plant life will follow. Plant life will be the subject of the lesson on Wednesday.

Name the domestic animals and tell how they are valuable to the farmer. Name the wild animals and classify as to their being useful or injurious, always leading the child to give reasons for opinions expressed. Encourage perfect freedom in telling of personal experiences and observations. This done, sufficient facts have been brought out to form the basis of a study of animals. The lesson on Thursday will be devoted to animal life.

The work on Friday will take into consideration results. Some conclusions will be reached, as to what may be accomplished by a faithful working out of the spirit and plan of the outline already developed. Charts.

The making of charts showing the different classes of plants and animals may be made a great inspiration to the children. Large sheets of manilla paper may be used for this purpose.

These charts hanging about the room stand for the effort and activity of the school, and are a valuable incentive.

SECOND LESSON—SOIL—TUESDAY—1897.

Lead the children to bring in all sorts of pebbles, sand, soil, etc., found in the district.

Pebbles—Size. Shape. How made?

Sand—Size and form of grain compared with pebbles. Use of sand in plastering, making and cutting glass, etc. Substance from which sand is made.

Soil—Size of grains compared with pebbles and sand. Animal and vegetable matter. Experiment. In the first of three glasses or bottles of water put pebbles, in the second sand, in third soil. Watch results. Why?

Use of soil. Its richness depends on rock below it and on the action of plants and animals. Cultivating crops make the soil somewhat unnatural. Fertilization necessary. Death of one thing always giving life to another.

Subjects to be developed. Sunshine and its work. The atmosphere and its work. Water and its work. Living forms and their work. Kinds of soils and their products.

The work done with the soil suggests a general study of minerals such as coal, lead, tin, iron, gold, silver, etc.

Stories of Industry, Vol. I, furnishes sufficient subject matter facts for this line of work.

SUPPLEMENT TO COUNTRY SCHOOL SYLLABUS FOR 1898.

SOIL—TUESDAY'S LESSON.

Importance of studying the soil. Plant life depends upon three elements—soil, heat, moisture. Heat and moisture are almost entirely beyond our control, but we can greatly increase the fertility of the soil.

Composition:

First—Fine particles of rock. The greater portion of the soil is formed by the disintegration of rocks caused by freezing water. Oxidation also causes disintegration.

Second—Decaying vegetable matter. All vegetable accumulations (grass, leaves, wood, etc.), on the surface, are mixed with the soil. Under certain conditions these accumulations become coal.

Third—Decaying animal matter. Lime is an essential element in soil, and is derived from the bones and shells of animals. Coral formations. It has become a common practice to drill in ground bone with wheat.

Fourth—Combinations of the above which are especially fitted for plant food.

Classification:

First—Sandy. Its fertility depends on kind and amount of other substances mixed with it. Does not retain moisture or plant food well. Easily cultivated. Available early in the season. Known as a warm, light soil.

Second—Clayey. Absorbs and retains fertilizers to a remarkable degree. Water does not easily pass through it. Suffers comparatively little from drought. Available late in the spring. Not easily cultivated. Forms in hard lumps if cultivated too wet.

Third—Peaty. One of the most valuable. Contains much vegetable mold. Does not easily become unproductive. Certain kinds sometimes dried and used for fuel.

Fertilization:

Naturally, plants that grow upon the soil die and decay upon it, and what they have taken from it in growth is returned at death. Removing crops necessitates fertilization. Fertilizers—farm manure, ground bone, bone ashes, wood ashes, lime, salt, etc.

Cultivation:

First—The soil is made soft that the roots of plants may easily penetrate it.

Second—To admit air to the roots.

Third—To mix the soil and fertilizers.

Fourth—To allow the soil to decay and form plant food.

Fifth—To kill weeds.

Sixth—To hold moisture.

THIRD LESSON—PLANTS - WEDNESDAY—1897.

Make charts classifying plant life under different heads, such as different kinds of grain raised on a farm. Garden vegetables. Orchard trees. Trees that grow in the woods. Wild flowers. Cultivated flowers, etc. Have these charts hanging on the wall and add to the list until they are fairly complete. Take up the life history of individual plants—corn, for instance. What kind of soil necessary? When planted? How long growing? Form of plant as to height of stalk, blades, roots, etc. Bushels to the acre. Price per bushel. Uses of corn.

Follow this line of work until the more common farm products have been somewhat definitely studied.

In the fall and winter months, pursue this line of work, using specimens collected the first weeks of school. Germination. In the spring plant corn, beans, etc. Make conditions different for the same kinds of seed as to soil, light and heat. Draw conclusions. Plant food. Study seeds. Watch for buds and study them as to position, covering, arrangement.

Have the children bring in pussy willows. Twig in hand, notice buds as to size, covering and arrangement. Lead the children to discover many things about the pussies. Teach them the charming little song "Pretty Pussy Down by the Brook."

Country children with their unlimited advantages should know a great deal about all forms of life, and faithful teaching will bring about this result.

SUPPLEMENT TO COUNTRY SCHOOL SYLLABUS, 1898.

PLANTS—WEDNESDAY'S LESSON.

Before studying any plant in a definite way, bring any common one into the school room and lead children to see general plan of structure.

Root, stem, leaves, blossom, fruit. Uses of each part named. Plants as well as people have work to do. See September Plant Book, page 34, for "Things to find out about plants." Children become greatly interested in the sunflower, golden rod, milkweed, etc.

Seed Cradles:

In October have children make a collection of seed cradles. Study one kind pretty carefully and use it as basis for the general observation of others. See page 123, October Plan Book, for milkweed outline.

Seeds and Fruits:

Make collections of seeds and bring out their uses as food. Make a chart of fruits growing, First—on trees. Second—on bushes. Third—on vines. Study one kind carefully, apple for example, as to surface, skin, pulp, core, seeds, etc. The October Plan Book contains outlines for the study of the apple, grape, peach and leaves.

Leaves :

Make collections of leaves. Mount, paint and draw them. Cut leaves from colored paper and paste them. Decorate the school room with leaf borders.

Vegetables :

Late in the Fall study the pumpkin and make a chart of all vegetables resembling it. Make a Jack o'lantern. Make collections of nuts.

Gardens :

Early in the Spring make little house gardens, using small boxes, saucers or tumblers. See March Plan Book, page 723.

Twigs :

Bring in pussy willow twigs. The heat of the room causes them to come out quickly. Pussy willows are especially valuable because of their being available early.

Trees :

Children easily become very much interested in trees. Work along the line of what trees give us, houses, furniture, fuel, fruit, homes for birds, coal, shade, soil, beauty, medicine, etc.

Buds and Flowers :

Collect a great variety of buds and watch their development. Have a great many flowers growing in the school room. also cut flowers. Encourage the children to bring in cultivated plants. The thoughtful teacher will not fail to avail herself of the splendid influence of flowers and plants in the school room.

Spring Flowers :

Have children watch for early spring flowers. The violet will probably come earliest. Make much of its appearance by song and story. Use the flower of the cherry to show that fruit blossoms are flowers. The pea blossom is very attractive and easily studied. See June Plan Book, page 1049, for story "The Pea Blossom." Let the study of native plants lead to the consideration of those not found in this locality—cotton, rice, tea, coffee, etc.

Books :

There are a number of books named in the syllabus especially helpful in the study of plants.

FOURTH LESSON—ANIMALS—THURSDAY, 1897.

Following the same general plan suggested for plants, make charts classifying animals. September and October offer special advantages for the observation of birds and insects. Observe carefully how animals are preparing for the winter. Are any of the birds leaving this locality? Why? Domestic animals—uses. Wild animals—their uses. This discussion will lead to the necessity of food, animal and vegetable, and easy lessons in Human Physiology naturally follow. A little book, "Primary Lessons in Human Physiology," by Baldwin (Werner Co.), is a most valuable help at this point.

During the winter months study more carefully individual animals—dog, cat, cow, horse, squirrel, rabbit, etc. Always make comparisons as to their food, manner of getting it, their coverings, habits of living, degree of usefulness. Encourage the children to give their experiences with animals, and always inspire a full and free expression of opinions.

In the spring watch for birds and their nests—and all animals coming from their winter homes. Ants, bees and spiders furnish interesting points for study.

Have it understood in the district that any specimens sent in will be appreciated. Last year many of the teachers received great help from families having no children in school.

SUPPLEMENT TO COUNTRY SCHOOL SYLLABUS, 1898.

ANIMALS—THURSDAY'S LESSON.

Insects :

The early Fall offers special advantages for the study of insect life. Never study an insect, or any animal for that matter, at the cost of its life. Do not undertake any work that necessitates even the giving of pain to any animal. We can not afford to accustom children to such performances.

Cocoons :

Easily collected in the Fall after the leaves have fallen off. Put large worms in wire cages or boxes and notice them spin cocoons. Keep these all winter and watch for re-appearance of life in the Spring.

Birds :

Migration. Any of the bird books mentioned in the syllabus treat of migration. Make charts based on their manner of living—land birds, water birds, birds living mostly in trees, etc. Encourage the children to know by name common birds of the locality. "Finding List of Forty Common Birds," by F. E. Sanford, La Grange, Ill.

Birds' Nests. Places for them. Material used—wool, grass, hair moss, mud, silk from thistle, etc. In November study the turkey. Have picture on blackboard. Wild turkeys—their habits, size, etc. Bring turkey feathers to school. Their uses.

Domestic Animals :

In the winter study the farm animals.

Sheep. Use pictures even if the children have seen sheep. They give us clothing, leather, mutton and tallow. Their care. Characteristics—meek, follow leader. Draw and cut sheep folds. Their enemies. Make charts showing what each kind of domestic animals gives us. In this way lead the pupils to appreciate the true value of animals commonly found on the farm.

Wild Animals :

Teachers should not be satisfied with their work on animals until a general sentiment of kindness toward animal life prevails. The very general disposition of children to destroy life must be changed.

The Squirrel :

If possible have a live squirrel in school for a few days. Notice long slender body, bushy tail, long sharp claws, chisel shaped front teeth, food, home, nest made of dry leaves, moss, etc. Such work leads to a comparative study of animal characteristics. For instance, a consideration of the squirrel's home leads to a general study of homes of all sorts. Its manner of getting from place to place suggests animal locomotion. When children, under the direction of intelligent teaching, have been led into a proper spirit of appreciation and respect for all forms of life, their capacity for happiness and contentment has been materially increased.

Books :

A list of books may be found in the syllabus. The Plan Book, by Minnie M. George, Oak Park (A. Flanagan), issued monthly for ten months last year, is the most valuable collection of working material, suggestions, outlines, songs, etc., in print. The ten books, paper bound, sell for two dollars.

FIFTH LESSON—RESULTS—FRIDAY, 1897.

Nature lessons train the child to see, and the seeing must always be followed by the question—why is this? He observes that the cow chews her cud, that the woodpecker has peculiarly arranged toes, that the milkweed seeds have a sort of sail attached to them, that the teeth of different animals are unlike, etc., and under inspiring teaching the ability and disposition to see is followed closely by a desire to know the reason.

Science work gives the child knowledge, not only of a practical sort, but enables him, because of his ability to appreciate his surroundings, to really enjoy life. The work not being made laborious, but done with a great degree of comfort, furnishes a splendid basis for language exercises and word getting. New words come easily and rapidly when the child knows he really needs them.

Nature study is especially valuable as a means of uniting, in a more decided way, the home and the school. The teacher must first gain the confidence of the people; this makes it easy for her to so direct the work that they come to know that the school is an integral part of the community and by no means a separate affair, which the law compels them to support.

The social relations surrounding country life are not the most favorable. A common purpose in education does much toward improving such conditions. Evening entertainments have their value, and we may yet come to holding occasional night sessions of the school for the benefit of patrons. Great responsibilities rest with the teacher. Her room must be a model of neatness; her personal appearance must be absolutely above reproach; and with it all she must be thoroughly imbued with the teaching spirit.

SUPPLEMENT TO COUNTRY SCHOOL SYLLABUS, 1898.

RESULTS—FRIDAY'S LESSON.

The home and the school have a mutual interest in the future welfare of the boys and girls of today. The home and the school must act in harmony. The home may reinforce the school by regulating the food of the child, by insisting on a necessary amount of sleep and rest, by seeing that he is comfortably clothed, by insisting that habits of cleanliness be formed. An inexpensive kit of tools in the home is advisable. A black-board also affords entertainment and training. The more a love for home is developed and sustained the greater will be its power of co-operating with the school for good. The child once in school the teacher by law and authority controls his body but his soul must be won by the personality of the teacher. The child must be understood by parent and teacher. The school should develop the reading habit. There is an unlimited supply of good reading books even for children of the lowest grades. Home and school should join in getting these books for the children. A genuine love for books begets true happiness, and a supply of them compensates largely for the social disadvantages of country life. The school may be a social factor in the district. The teaching spirit being in evidence the children are inspired with a broader and higher life, and the influence of the school for good is manifest throughout the district.

BOOKS—1897.

The following books, some of which are not wholly along science lines, are valuable and merit the consideration of every teacher:

Jackman's Nature Study (Henry Holt & Co.) is an exceedingly valuable and suggestive book to teachers along all lines of elementary science work.

Arnold's Waymarks for Teachers (Silver, Burdette & Co.) records the results of every-day experiences in every-day school rooms, and has proved helpful to very many teachers.

The Plan Book, (A. Flanagan) edited by Minnie M. George, of Oak Park, and issued monthly, sets forth a plan of work for the school year and contains stories, sketches of authors, literature work, nature lessons, songs, pictures, programs for special days, etc. It has many very valuable suggestions for teachers.

A FINDING LIST OF SIXTY COMMON BIRDS PREPARED FOR THE COOK COUNTY TEACHER'S ASSOCIATION FOR BIRD MEETING, APRIL 9, 1898.

FRANK E. SANFORD,

Superintendent Schools, La Grange, Ill.

NOTES AND SUGGESTIONS.

THE birds in the following list may be found in any neighborhood in Cook County. They are arranged in three groups according to size, the familiar English Sparrow and the Robin being the standards of measure. The dates of arrival in the spring vary according to the season; those given in the list represent the average time.

The best time of the year to see birds is during spring and fall migration. Nearly all kinds of birds are most abundant then; and many kinds can be seen at no other time. From early March the number gradually increases until the first week of May, when more species of birds are here than at any other time of the year. By June first the migrants have passed northward to their nesting ground. September and October are the months of the return migration, but for several reasons bird observations are less satisfactory then than in the spring.

Several helpful books on birds have been published recently. The best is "Birds of Village and Field," by Florence A. Merriam, illustrated. Chapman's "Handbook of Birds" is good but more technical. The bird essays scattered through the works of John Burroughs are full of interest to bird-lovers.

I. Size of an English Sparrow or smaller.

1. English Sparrow. Abundant everywhere about houses, in flocks; permanent resident. Known by the large black throat-patch of the males. The breast is not striped. A scavenger and pugilist.

2. Song Sparrow. Common about gardens, lawns and orchards, March to October. Known by its sweet song; striped breast; and small, black throat-patch.

3. House Chippy. Chipping Sparrow. Common about houses, April 10 to October. Known by its "chipping" song, chestnut crown, pure gray breast and size (smallest of the sparrows).

4. Grass Sparrow. Vesper Sparrow. Frequent in grass fields and along roadsides, April 10 to October. Known by its white outer tail-feathers and brownish streaked back.

5. White-throated Sparrow. Common, often abundant, in gardens and about lawns and orchards, in flocks, April 15 to May 15, and again in September. Known by its soft, plaintive whistle and its white throat-patch and striped crown.

6. Snowbird. Junco. Abundant about lawns, gardens and fields, in flocks, in March, April and October; occasional in winter. Known by the white outer tail-feather and slate-colored back and breast.

7. Indigo Bird. Frequent in trees about houses and fields, April 30 to September. Whole bird a bright indigo-blue, which often looks black against the clear sky.

8. Goldfinch. Wild Canary. Frequent in fields and gardens, April 25 to October. Known by its bright yellow color, with black cap and wings. Occasional in winter in dark plumage.

9. Yellow Warbler. Yellow Bird. Frequent in trees about houses, orchards and open woods, May to September. Whole bird a bright yellow. Compare with the Goldfinch in coloring, shape of the bill and feeding habits. This is one of a large family of active, bright-colored little birds that fill the trees and shrubbery of lawn, garden and orchard during the first two weeks of May and last two weeks of September. A good observer may find twenty-five species of warblers in a season. Their usefulness in ridding tender tree-buds of harmful insects cannot be estimated.

10. Black and White Warbler. Frequent in trees about lawns and orchards, May to September. Known by its black and white stripes running lengthwise of the body, and its habit of creeping about tree trunks like a Nuthatch.

11. Ovenbird. Golden-crowned Thrush. Frequent on the ground about gardens and bushy lawns, in May and September. Known by its spotted breast (like a thrush), its amusing habit of walking, and its loud song, "teacher, TEACHER, TEACHER."

12. Warbling Vireo. Frequent in trees of lawns everywhere, May to September. Known best by its song, a pleasing warble of eight or ten notes given at intervals of two or three minutes during the whole day. One of the few birds that sings all summer.

13. Brown Creeper. Frequent on tree trunks in woods and about houses, in March, April, September and October; occasional in winter. Known by its persistent habit of creeping up tree trunks, by its slender bill, and brownish back.

14. Nuthatch. Blue Sap-Sucker. Frequent on tree trunks or limbs, in woods and about houses, in March, April, September and October, occasional in winter and summer. Known by the habit of creeping about the limbs and trunks of trees, often hanging head down and by the blue back with dark crown.

15. Chickadee. Frequent in trees of woods and lawns, in flocks; in March, April, September and October; occasional in winter. Known by its "Chickadee-dee-dee" note, and gray plumage with black crown and throat.

16. Gold-crested Kinglet. A tiny bird, frequent in trees and shrubs of lawn and field, in March, April and October, occasional in winter. Known by the bright yellow crown-stripe bordered with black.

17. Ruby-Crested Kinglet. Frequent in trees and bushes of lawn and field, in April and October. May be known by the fiery red crown, which, however, is often concealed. The white eye-ring and wing bars, and its frequent habit of fluttering, like a humming bird, when feeding, also distinguish it. A pleasing singer.

18. House Wren. Frequent about houses and barns, April 20 to October. Known by its loud rapid song, its brownish striped plumage and pert appearance.

19. Winter Wren. Wood Wren. Frequent about wood piles, along streams and in fallen trees in the woods, from October to April. Known by its wren-like appearance and movements, and its amusing habit of ducking the body when watching an intruder.

20. Downy Woodpecker. Little Black and White Woodpecker. Frequent permanent resident in orchards and about houses in spring, fall and winter; in woods during summer. Known by its habit of pecking holes in trees, the black and white striped back, and its size (smallest of the woodpeckers).

21. Chimney Swift, Chimney "Swallow." Common, often abundant, flying about over houses, April 25 to October. Known by its swallow-like habit of flying in irregular circles, but distinguished from true swallows by its chattering note when flying, and its longer, more slender wings. Rests and nests in chimneys.

22. Humming Bird. Frequent about flower beds and gardens, May 5 to September. Known by the humming noise of its wings; its swift, dashing flight; and habit of feeding among flowers. Our smallest bird.

---

II. Larger than an English Sparrow, Smaller than a Robin.

23. Bluebird. Frequent about orchards and roadsides from March to October. Known by the blue back and rusty colored breast. Not so often seen as formerly.

24. Catbird. Common in shrubbery about gardens, along wooded streams, and in low thickets, April 20 to September. Known by its catlike note and slate-colored plumage.

25. Oriole. Baltimore Oriole. Common in trees about houses, April 30 to September. Known by the loud characteristic whistle, and the black and orange coloring.

26. Bobolink. Abundant in the grass of meadows, May 5 to September. Known by its rollicking song, and black and cream plumage of the male.

27. Prairie Horned Lark. Common in country roads and in fields, throughout the year. Known by its habit of running and feeding in the road, its black throat-ring, and general gray-brown coloring.

28. Dick Cissel. Little Meadow Lark. Common in fields and in trees along country roadsides, May 1 to September. Known by its persistent song—"See, see, Dick, Dick, Cissel, Cissel," and its yellowish breast with black throat-patch (like a Meadow Lark's, but duller).

29. Redwinged Blackbird. Common in swampy places, March to October. Known by the black plumage with bright red wing-patch.

30. Scarlet Tanager. Occasional in trees about orchards and fields, May 5 to September. Known by the brilliant scarlet plumage with black wings.

31. Rose-breasted Grosbeak. Frequent in trees about orchards and lawns, May 1 to September. Known by the thick bill, black and white back, and white breast inclosing a patch of rose-color. Female brownish, striped with black.

32. Chewink. Ground Robin. Frequent in shrubbery, gardens and thickets, on the ground or near it, April 10 to September. Known by its metallic "Chewink" note, and the dark back, white breast and the robin-red coloring of the sides.

33. Red-headed Woodpecker. Frequent on trees in orchards and open woods, May 1 to October. Known by the bright crimson covering of the entire head and neck, and large white patch on the back.

34. Sapsucker. Yellow-breasted Woodpecker. Common in trees of lawn and wood about April 10 and September 20 for a few days. Known by the long white stripe on the wing and red throat-patch of the male.

35. Kingbird. Bee Martin. Common about open fields, May 1 to September. Known by its prominent crest, black plumage and white tip of the tail. Note, a harsh twitter. A "fly-catcher," i. e., feeds by diving from its perch and catching insects in the air. Often seen attacking crows and hawks on the wing.

36. Phoebe. Frequent about houses and open woods, April 1 to September. Known by its flycatcher habits of feeding, dark plumage, black bill, and "phoebe" note.

37. Wood Pewee. Frequent in woods and orchards

April to September. Known by its flycatching habits, reddish bill, and mournful “pee-a-wee” note.

38. Swallow. Two kinds of swallows are often seen about barns—the Barn Swallow, with long forked tail; and the Eave Swallow, with short, square tail. Both are blue-black above, with reddish markings about the head, and feed on insects caught while circling through the air.

39. Purple Martin. Occasional about barns and in bird-houses, May to September. Looks and acts like a large swallow, but distinguished by its entire blue-black color.

40. Wood Thrush. Song Thrush. Frequent in orchards, thickets and shady woods, April 25 to September. Known by its pleasing, flute-like whistle, “thrush breast,” (white spotted with black,) and chestnut shoulders.

41. Hermit Thrush. Common in April and October about gardens and lawns. Known by the “thrush breast,” olive green back, and chestnut red on the tail. Earliest of the thrushes to appear in the spring. Does not sing here.

42. Fox Sparrow. Common in April and October in gardens and hedge rows. Largest of the sparrows. Reddish or fox-colored with a black and white spotted breast. A beautiful singer.

43. Cedar Bird. Frequent in trees, April to October, always in flocks. A dark brown bird, with a prominent crest and black bill.

44. Screech Owl. Little Horned Owl. Occasional in trees of lawn and field, throughout the year. More often heard than seen. Note, a quavering whine.

---

III. Size of a Robin or Larger.

45. Robin. Common everywhere about houses, March to November. Known by its “cheer up” song and red breast.

46. Blue Jay. Very common about houses and woods; permanent resident. Known by the size, prominent crest, and light blue back with black neck-ring and white markings.

47. Meadow Lark. Abundant in the fields, usually in the grass, March to November. Known by its sweet song, yellow breast, and white outer tail feathers.

48. Mourning Dove. Frequent in trees of orchards, lawns and fields. April 5 to October. Known by its soft cooing note, and dove like form, and also, when flying, by the whistling noise of the wings and the broad pointed tail.

49. Thrasher. Brown "Thrush." Frequent in bushy gardens and thickets from April 15 to October. Known by its mocking bird song (from a tree top morning or evening), the "thrush breast," bright cinnamon back and slender body with long tail.

50. Yellow Hammer. Flicker. Frequent about trees of orchards, lawns and open woods, March to October. Known by its woodpecker habit of clinging to the bark and pecking trees, and its brownish color. Its loud call "Wick-a-wick-a-wick-awick" is characteristic. The yellow lining of the wings and tail can be seen when it flies overhead.

51. Crow Blackbird. Grackle. Abundant in trees of lawns, orchards and fields, or walking on the ground, in flocks, March to November. Known by the black coloring, with greenish iridescence about the head and neck.

52. Crow. Common in fields and open woods, away from houses. Throughout the year. Known by the black color, size and characteristic "caw" note. More often seen when flying; walks on the ground.

53. Cuckoo. Rain Crow. Frequent in trees about houses, May to September. A shy bird, more often heard than seen. Known by its "cuckoo" note, its long bill and tail, and brownish color.

54. Night Hawk. Bull Bat. Locally common, sometimes abundant. Rarely seen except when flying. Known by its swallow-like habits of flight; its larger size; its long pointed wings, each of which has a white spot in the center that looks like "a hole in the wing."

55. Butcher Bird. Shrike. Occasional, winter or summer, in fields and open woods. Known by its habit of impaling insects and small birds on thorns. Color gray and white. Flies low. Perches on the top of low trees.

56. Kingfisher. Frequent along large streams and ponds. Known by its rattling note; its blue and white color; its prominent crest and long bill. Feeds on fish caught with the bill when diving.

57. Green Heron. Shide Poke. Occasional along streams and about shallow water. A greenish bird with very long neck and legs.

58. Marsh Owl. Short-eared Owl. Occasional in grass and low trees in fields, throughout the year, but more common in winter. The only large owl likely to be seen flying near the ground in open fields.

59. "Hen Hawk." Circling Hawk. Buteo. Frequently seen flying high in the air in circles. Known by its manner of flight, and clearly whistled "kee-you." Feeds mostly on field mice, rarely touching poultry.

60. Wild Goose. Canadian Goose. Often seen flying in large V-shaped flocks, northward in March, southward in November. May be recognized by its manner of flight and cackling notes.

Feeding Habits.

One of the best ways to get acquainted with a bird is to notice how and where it feeds.

I. Birds that feed upon seeds, insects and worms found on the ground are those numbered in this pamphlet: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 11, 23, 24, 26, 27, 28, 29, 32, 40, 41, 42, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 51, 52.

II. Birds that feed upon insects and worms found in decayed wood and on the bark of trees are those numbered 10, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 33, 34, 50. This group includes the Creepers and Woodpeckers.

III. Birds that feed upon insects and worms found on the foliage of trees are Nos. 9, 12, 25, 30, 53. This includes the Warblers and Vireos.

IV. Birds that feed upon insects caught while on the wing are Nos. 21, 22, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 43, 54, 55. This includes the Swallows and Flycatchers.

Color.

The coloring of birds is not nearly as important a means of distinguishing them as is generally supposed. Feeding habits, manner of flying and walking, and shape of the body are more generally useful signs for recognition. Bright or unusual patches of color, however, should always be noticed, and together with other signs will prove helpful "field marks."

I. Birds that have prominent blue markings are Nos. 7, 14, 23, 38, 46, 56.

II. Birds that have bright red markings are Nos. 17, 20, 22, 29, 30, 31, 33, 34, 35.

III. Birds that have brownish or chestnut red markings are Nos. 3, 11, 18, 19, 32, 38, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 49, 58.

IV. Birds that have bright yellow markings are Nos. 8, 9, 16, 25, 28, 47, 50.

These bird lists were furnished for the use of pupils. The interest varied in different schools, but it was very general. In some schools the children became enthusiastic bird students and in so doing became friends of the birds. Their whole lives will be richer and better in consequence.

CHICAGO NORMAL SCHOOL.

According to the agreement made with the Board of Education of the City of Chicago when the Cook County Normal School was transferred to the City Board, students from Cook County, outside of the city, have been admitted to the School during the past two years on payment of a tuition by the County of $20 each per year. Students who are admitted to the School by the County Superintendent must have completed a four years' High School course or its equivalent. The question is often asked as to the eligibility to the Normal School of non-residents of Cook County. Non-residents of Cook County outside of the City of Chicago cannot be admitted to the School by the County Superintendent under any conditions. From the city, graduates of a Chicago High School with a four years' average standing of 90 per cent. are admitted without examination. Graduates of City High Schools, having a lower per cent. than 90, may take an examination for admission to the Normal School given by the City Board of Education in June of each year. To this examination others who are residents of the city and who have completed a course equivalent to the Chicago High School course may be admitted by the City Superintendent of Schools. Teachers having had four years' successful experience, who pass the city examination for teachers, whether residents of Cook County or not, may also be admitted to the Normal School if they wish to take the course. No other non-residents are admitted under any conditions. The Chicago Normal School has thus become a Normal School for the whole of Cook County which it never was under the old name and prior to its transfer to the City of Chicago. It must be understood that in graduating only those students admitted by the City Board of Education become eligible to teach in the City of Chicago and only those students who are admitted by the County Superintendent become eligible to teach in Cook County outside of the City of Chicago. Prior to the City Board of Education taking charge of the Normal School the students graduated were never allowed to teach in the City Schools unless they first passed a teacher's examination the same as other applicants. Students are graduated for the County after one year at the Normal and receive a County certificate. For the City they are graduated after a one year's course, but they are then required to Cadet in the Chicago Public Schools a half year before appointment as teachers. For the year 1897 there were graduated for the County, 44; for the City, 382. For 1898 for the County, 34; for the City, 304.

A fine building for the Practice School is nearing completion and the splendid work of the School will be even better in the future than it has been in the past.

Appended are the names of County Graduates for 1897 and 1898:

THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTES.

The Cook County Teachers' Institute for the year 1897 was held at the University of Chicago. The teachers were received at the University with the same marked cordiality which had greeted them the year before, and the Institute was successful in every particular.

For the year 1898 the city of Chicago discontinued the week's institute which had been held in each of the two previous years. This left the Normal School Building, where the Cook County Institutes have always been held with the exceptions of the years 1896 and 1897, at the disposal of the county teachers. Dr. Harper, of the University of Chicago, had extended a very cordial invitation to make free use of the University buildings, but there are many cogent reasons why the Normal School building was preferable for institute use, and it was finally decided, with the consent of the Board of Education of Chicago, to return to that building. Programs of the work for the two years are appended :

KINDERGARTENS.

Nearly fifty years ago Charles Dickens, in an editorial on kindergartens for Household Words which was reprinted in the December Kindergarten Magazine, wrote as follows:

“There would be fewer sullen, quarrelsome, dull-witted men and women if there were fewer children starved or fed improperly in heart and brain. To improve society—to make men and women better—it is requisite to begin quite at the beginning, and to secure for them a wholesome education during infancy and childhood.” And again, “Froebel’s boys (in his first village boy’s school) came to him with many a twist in mind or temper caught by wriggling up through the bewilderments of neglected infancy. The first sproutings of the human mind need thoughtful culture; there is no period, indeed, in which culture is so essential, and yet in nine out of ten cases, it is precisely while the little blades of thought and buds of love are frail and tender, that no heed is taken to maintain the soil about them wholesome, and the air about them free from blight.”

In The Intelligence, for December, I find this startling paragraph for Christian people, from the pen of Dr. Wm. T. Harris, “If I were to name one product of vice and crime that would soonest touch the hearts of all good people, I would say the neglected child. Give me the child and the state shall have the man. Every case of vagabondage has its root in some neglected child.”

Dickens wrote thus about forty years after the founding of kindergartens and twenty-five years after they were well established in Germany. He was as profoundly impressed as Froebel with the paramount importance of happy childhood as a factor in the formation of character in men and women.

As a principle of action this belief is coming very slowly into our American pedagogics—taking the country over and conceding the kindergarten to be the rational representative of happy childhood.

In Chicago and Cook County the past ten years have accomplished great results. It is only twenty-four years ago that a small group of earnest women organized themselves into the first kindergarten study class in the City of Chicago under the leadership of Mrs. Alice H. Putnam. All were students alike, Mrs. Putnam having but recently taken up the study for the benefit of her own children. Hence her study and demonstration kept exact pace. During all the years since that time she has been a profound kindergarten student and teacher, and her fame extends the country over. She may justly be called the pioneer kindergartner of Chicago.

Any account of great educational movements in Chicago must include the work of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Blatchford, who may be counted first among our cultured and philanthropic citizens. The first free kindergarten in Chicago was opened by Mrs. Blatchford in 1879 in memory of her own little child—the most beautiful memorial possible. Mrs. Blatchford was president of the World's Kindergarten Congress during the Columbian Exposition of 1893. In 1880 two permanent organizations were made, the Chicago Free Kindergarten Association and the Chicago Froebel Association. Of the latter Mrs. Putnam became superintendent of the training class and has continued in that capacity until the present time. Many of the most famous kindergartners of the country are graduates of her classes. The headquarters of this association are now at Hull House and Mrs. Blatchford is still its president. The association has supported as many as twenty free kindergartens at one time in the most destitute portions of Chicago.

The Chicago Free Kindergarten Association opened its first Kindergarten in the Pacific Mission, corner Van Buren and Clark streets, in 1881, Dr. and Mrs. John Smith providing the money to carry it on. Among its staunch supporters were Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Kelley. The first superintendent of its training class was Miss Matilda Ross, who after serving four years, was succeeded by Miss Eva B. Whitmore, the present superintendent. This association also has graduated many famous kindergartners and has supported as many free Kindergartens as the Froebel association. Its present location is at Armour Institute.

The Chicago Kindergarten College had its small beginning in the Loring School, in 1885. The first training class consisted of five girl students and two mothers, under the leadership of Miss Elizabeth Harrison, one of Mrs. Putnam's graduates. Later on Mrs. J. N. Crouse joined forces with Miss Harrison, and in 1891 the organization took its present name, Chicago Kindergarten College. Among the specialists who have taught or given lectures in the College may be mentioned Prof. E. G. Howe, natural science; Wm. L. Tomlins, music; Miss Mari Rufer Hofer, vocal instruction; Denton J. Snider, history and literature; George P. Brown, psychology; Miss Josephine C. Locke, art study; Miss Eleanor Smith, vocal culture. The College has done excellent work in very many lines. Probably the most effective and largely attended mothers' classes ever held have been carried on here, numbering as high as seven hundred attendants. The work done in these classes has been of incalculable good. The College is still under the leadership of Miss Harrison and Mrs. Crouse, and is located at No. 10 Van Buren St.

These three great training schools and the many, many free kindergartens sustained for years in the needy portions of Chicago are the direct outgrowth of the magnificent efforts of noble Chicago women. Their zeal and persistence have been wonderful. Time and labor and money have been freely given. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been expended for the support of the free kindergartens which for years vainly begged a home in the public school buildings; and it is a most humiliating confession to say that they vainly begged for recognition and support from Chicago school teachers, male and female alike. But a change came. First the use of one school room in a building manned by a splendid woman principal was grudgingly given by the Board of Education, then another, then another; each succeeding school room more willingly than the others. Then within a very few years the Board assumed the entire expense of the kindergartens, which it had housed, and school principals began to clamor for more of them. Thus far the Board of Education had acted without warrant of law—all honor to the men who acted. On the 17th of April, 1895, less than four years ago, the General Assembly passed a law permitting the establishment of kindergartens in the public schools and as part of them, and the great battle was won. This is not saying that kindergartens are in all of the public graded schools of Chicago and Cook County—much less of Illinois—but the way is open and their general adoption is only a question of time.

To show the wonderful results of twenty-four years, the first half of which was purely pioneer work, the following facts are given from the "Chicago Kindergarten Club" for 1898-1899.

There are at present in Chicago and vicinity:—

Social Settlement, free and Mission Kindergartens.....	40
Private Kindergartens.....	69
Public School Kindergartens.....	87
Total.....	196

The County Public School Kindergartens outside of the city, are, two at Evanston, two at Morgan Park, one each at Wilmette, Winnetka, Riverside, River Forest, Clyde, and two at Berwyn, the first to be established was at Evanston and the second at Morgan Park.

And what does it all mean? that men and women at the close of the nineteenth century are realizing in some degree the truth of what Dicken's wrote fifty years ago:

"To improve society, to make men and women better, it is requisite to begin quite at the beginning, and to secure for them a wholesome education during infancy and childhood."

This is the grand mission of the Kindergarten.

ARITHMETIC.

During the past two or three years the educational journals throughout the country have teemed with articles and discussions on what is termed the "ratio method" of teaching arithmetic. This new method seems to have taken form unto itself in Chicago. Like measles and whooping cough it rages most with small children and marvelous results are shown in some of the schools with first, second and third grade children. In the latter part of second grade classes and in the third, it is difficult and oftentimes impossible for experienced teachers to follow the operations of the children. Their sharpness and skill in performing mathematical operations, or to put it differently, their surprising gymnastics in observing and comparing are very fascinating to the teachers to whom the work is new. Once the teacher in charge gets the plan of work well in mind, together with the blocks and other material, she has little further trouble. The machine runs smoothly. The work seems so successful—that is the fruits are so apparent and the children seem so "smart"—that the teachers naturally and perhaps unconsciously devote an inordinate amount of time to it. I have seen in one of the most successful "ratio method" schools of Chicago, one-half of a forenoon session given to arithmetic in the first grade, and this with children who could attend school only three hours in the twenty-four. The school was situated in a district in which books and reading are almost an unknown quantity in the homes. This school is no exception among those in the throes of the "ratio method" and it is quoted as one of the best. I wondered if the motive of the teacher ever went outside of the school room into the real lives of the children—I mean their lives in the other twenty-one hours of the day. I wondered how the work of the school was giving an uplift to the children and through them to the homes they live in. Method may be so elaborate as to defeat the legitimate ends of education and the value of the method must be determined by other evidence than the pert performances of little children. "But the children can do the work and they like it," is the answer of the teachers to any protest of an outsider. Very true, but the question is not whether they can do it, but whether they ought to do it. The interest of children is always excited in the overcoming of difficulties and by the admiration or surprise of older people. They might be trained to stand on their heads, to walk on their hands, to turn somersaults backwards and they would be intensely interested, but I have never heard these facts used as arguments for the introduction of these performances as physical exercises in the schoolroom. The understanding of the relative value of numbers and the relation of one number to another of like name in the same problem, in other words ratio, is absolutely necessary in any intelligent teaching of arithmetic. It should enter into the discussion of a majority of problems, but to say that it enters into all arithmetical operations is nonsense. Some of the discussions on this subject would mystify a high-grade Hindoo. The average teacher cannot even understand them when set forth by the few truly wise, much less can she apply them. Any method that is above or below or beyond the best effort of the average teacher is of small practical value, and we are told that in the matter under discussion even the best of the teachers do not "get hold of the spirit of the method," whatever that may be. What then is to become of the half of the scholars under the poorer half of the teachers? The method of teaching arithmetic which should be employed with children in the first year and the first half and probably the whole of the second year will mystify no teacher. There should be no systematic teaching of number in these years, hence no method. The numbering and measuring incidental to the best work in these grades are all-sufficient. Under the stimulus of needing the number and of being able to measure to get it, because of its being a part of observation and training in construction, the acquiring of arithmetical facts is surprisingly easy and rapid, and no less surprising is the ability to use these facts. Any systematic teaching of number and number relations, as before said, should be begun not earlier than the middle of the second school year, and a little later would work no harm to the pupils. From the beginning of the third year to the close of the seventh the work should be vigorous and systematic, but always within the ability of the children. At least eighty per cent. of class work should be what is commonly called mental arithmetic, and it should include discussion of problems with numbers too large for mental solution. Recitation time is too precious for blackboard solution of long problems. The time wasted in arithmetic recitations involving the answers to long problems is something enormous. During the school year 1893-4 the teachers of the ungraded schools in Cook county in the monthly meetings with the superintendents, discussed arithmetic for the entire year. What they were pleased to term an arithmetic creed was formulated at that time and we have had no special need to change it since.

AN ARITHMETIC CREED.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1, 1894.

The Country Teachers' Section of Cook County Teachers' Association have thus far agreed upon the following articles for an Arithmetic Creed:

ARTICLE I. All operations which should be taught to Children in number can be performed with numbers of things.

ART. II. The subjects to be taught in Arithmetic, the terms to be used, and the processes to be employed, shall be determined from the standpoint of the child and not from that of the educated adult.

ART. III. In determining what shall be taught in Arithmetic we should be able to show that any topic is a. Practical; that is that it has to do with the affairs of life, or that it is

b. Disciplinary; that is that it insures mental growth and mental strength.

ART. IV. We condemn the giving of work in Arithmetic under the name of "Examples" for which conditions stated in problems cannot be made. For instance, complicated examples in complex or compound fractions.

ART. V. Definition and rule should be required only when the thing to be defined or the process under the rule is thoroughly understood. Hence definitions and rules close, not begin, a subject. They should be made by the students.

ART. VI. Lessons in Arithmetic should not be assigned for home study.

ART. VII. Operations in Arithmetic which have become obsolete, or have never existed elsewhere in the world, should become obsolete in the school room.

ART. VIII. Problems in Arithmetic should employ the best effort of the pupil, but should never go beyond it. He grows through what he does for himself. The skillful teacher secures and directs his best efforts.

SUGGESTIONS AS TO WHAT SHALL BE TAUGHT IN ARITHMETIC.

Amendment A. The arithmetic work should have its foundations laid in measurement—Hull.

1. Fundamental operations—four or five according to your faith. Numbers used to be within the comprehension of pupils. First correctness then rapidity in work. Use of Federal money included in the foregoing.

2. Measurements—lines, surfaces, solids. In measurement of surfaces platting to a scale. (Actual measurements by the children.)

3. Denominate tables, such as are in common use, and relative value of units. Tables learned by actual measurement, so far as practicable. Addition, subtraction, etc., of denominate numbers, obsolete.

4. Fractions—that occur in the world. Keep the fractions within the range of the multiplication table, or such numbers as the children can manage mentally. The changes in fractions should be thought out, not brought about by mechanical process. Nine-tenths of the work in fractions should be mental—yes, nineteen-twentieths.

5. Decimal Fractions and percentage. Discard all superfluous terms. Omit three-fourths of the separate topics in percentage, but thoroughly teach the principles.

6. Squares and square root. Cubes and cube root—the latter only with numbers such that the cube root may be thought out easily, as 8, 27, 64, 125.

7. Mensuration—limited extent. So far as different kinds of solids are concerned.

The comparison of numbers and the thorough understanding of ratio and the use of the term, should begin with second grade work and extend through the entire course.

Establish certain principles and then stick by them. As (a) Like numbers only can be united—added. (b) A product must be like the multiplicand. (c) A dividend must be greater than its divisor, etc.

In the Public School Journal of March, 1898, Mr. Frank H. Hall, Superintendent of the Illinois Institution for the Blind, published an article called Recent and Prospective Changes in the Methods of Teaching Arithmetic. The article was one of the soundest and most suggestive that have ever appeared in print. I quote some principles which he laid down at the close of that article:

1. The arithmetic work should have its foundations laid in measurement.

2. Formal work in arithmetic should be deferred until near the beginning of the third school year.

3. The use of large numbers, long rows of figures, must not be permitted below the 6th grade.

4. The presentation of division under two heads or cases, is, to say the least, a great mental convenience and makes it easily possible for the child to see in division, magnitude-relation.

5. All that work should be eliminated from the text-books which involves the use of magnitudes of which the average pupil can have no adequate conception.

6. While smaller numbers should be employed, greater accuracy must be demanded in the so-called mechanical operations. Nothing short of absolute accuracy must receive high commendation.

I quote also from a circular received within a year from Wisconsin. It is entitled "A Suggested Course of Study in Arithmetic for the Graded Schools in Wisconsin." I quote to show that there is a wide demand for simplification and elimination in arithmetic, although this course of study has not gone into operation in Wisconsin as yet.

1. The leading purpose of work in first, second and third grades, or until a text book is placed in the hands of the pupil, should be the acquirement of the ability to add, subtract, multiply and divide simple numbers (not too large), accurately and rapidly. Simple concrete problems may be given to a limited extent, but this work should be strictly subordinate to the main purpose as above stated.

2. Work in fractions below fifth grade mainly oral. Very little or no work in fractions below sixth grade giving results with denominators greater than 100.

3. No long division below fifth grade with divisors of more than two figures. If thorough mastery of division by two figures is acquired, division by greater numbers will follow very easily when occasion arises.

4. Omit greatest common divisor entirely as a separate topic, and use only so much of least common multiple as is necessary for addition and subtraction of fractions.

5. Omit "longitude and time." Teach the principles of this in connection with geography.

6. Begin simple work in tables of denominate numbers in lower grades and continue this work throughout the course; but omit reduction, addition, subtraction, multiplication and division of denominate numbers as separate topics.

7. Omit examples of percentage with double commission, and those in which an agent receives a stated amount to cover commission and cost.

8. Limit taxes, insurance and duties to simplest cases and explanation of terms.

9. Give very little attention to problems in interest.

10. Either omit stocks and bonds or limit to oral work.

11. Teach only the U. S. rule for partial payments and limit to three payments.

12. Omit true discount, and take only first case in bank discount.

13. Omit compound interest, exchange, and equation of payments.

14. Take first case in partnership without element, of time.

15. Teach square root without requiring explanations. Omit cube root and applications except such as can be done by inspection.

16. Make problems involving proportion prominent throughout the course.

It is safe to say that little children will survive the "ratio method" as they have other crazes—notably what has been called the "Pollard System of Teaching Reading." Good will doubtless come from the discussions in emphasizing the importance of making clear the element that ratio plays in the solution of problems. It is probably true that even the "Pollard Method" and the discussions which it has provoked have caused more intelligent teaching of reading through the emphasis given to the phonic element, the factor which should aid the child in acquiring new words. But any method to be a truly good one must sink into the background out of the consciousness of the child instead of rising as a barrier between him and the rational fruits of his efforts.

GOOD BOOKS FOR SCHOOL LIBRARIES.

Many of the names of books given below were in the last Biennial Report. The list contains many additional names. The aim has been to select good books which can be had for a small amount of money. Books have been chosen, also, with reference to supplementary reading as an aid to the studies in hand. They are arranged from the easiest to the most difficult, but no effort has been made to grade them closely. The prices quoted with the following books are not the list prices of the publishers, but are those given by a dealer to whom the list was submitted, and whose name may be had on application.

JOHN F. EBERHART,
First Cook County Superintendent of Schools, 1859 to 1869.

COOK COUNTY SUPERINTENDENTS.

Before there were County Superintendents in the State of Illinois there were School Commissioners. The first of these in Cook County was Judge George Manierre, who was elected in 1844 and served until 1852. Prior to Judge Manierre's election school affairs were in a very chaotic condition. The school section of the South Town, which cornered at State and Madison streets, had mostly been sold in city lots, but Judge Manierre found a school fund of less than $40,000—about enough to pay for three front feet of the corner referred to at the present time. He also found the funds from other school sections, most of which had been sold, in very bad condition or entirely dissipated. Judge Manierre applied himself vigorously to saving what was left, and to establishing some kind of order in school affairs. It was afterwards said of him: "The same quiet and practical sagacity which he manifested in the management of his own affairs, brought to the management of the school funds, soon retrieved its affairs and placed the entire trust upon a solid basis, and the common schools of Cook County under his supervision were put into successful operation."

It must be remembered, however, that little supervision of schools was possible or expected. Then, as now, the commissioner licensed the teachers and he received a fee of one dollar for each certificate granted. This constituted his salary. He was expected to work for the schools, but get his living at something else.

Judge Manierre was succeeded in office by J. W. Waughup, and he in turn by William L. Greenleaf—both able men. Then came John F. Eberhart, who was elected Commissioner in 1859, and continued in office until 1869. Soon after this election the title of the office was changed to County Superintendent. Mr. Eberhart's reminiscences of school affairs in Cook County and Illinois are most interesting. When he was elected, there were fifty-five teachers in Chicago and 102 in Cook County outside of the city. His compensation at first was two dollars per day for visiting schools, to which he usually walked, and the certificate fee.

As County Superintendent he received a good salary. He says that if directors wished a license for a teacher they had been accustomed to send a dollar and expected the certificate by return post. He cites many extraordinary cases in school affairs—among them a director's daughter had fifty dollars per month for teaching, his son five dollars per week for building fires, and the director fifty dollars per month for supervising the building of a two-room school.

GEORGE D. PLANT,
Cook County Superintendent of Schools, 1873 to 1877.

This sort of thrift was not confined to the early history of Cook County. An instance could be cited of present board of directors in which one of the members paid himself five dollars each for drawing teacher's warrants and fifty dollars for taking the census (a day's work) to say nothing of his share of the salary paid the teacher and of the contents of the school coal shed. The census was taken in his saloon.

Mr. Eberhart's entire time was given to the schools. He was a college graduate and a man of great force of character. He was also a practical teacher. He established regular and thorough examinations and conducted successful teachers' meetings and institutes. The first teachers' institute in Cook County was held at Oak Park, April, 1860. Mr. Eberhart drafted the law making possible the establishment of County normal schools, and towards the close of his last term secured action from the County Supervisors of which the Cook County Normal School was the result.

In 1862 the "First Report of the Cook County Schools by the Commissioner" was issued, and an interesting document it is, containing thirty-five pages. Among the institute workers mentioned in this report I find the names of J. L. Pickard, John M. Gregory, Wm. H. Wells, D. S. Wentworth, Willard Woodard, Rev. Otis Skinner, Prof. Joseph Haven, Rev. W. W. Everts, Dr. J. C. Burroughs, Rodney Welch, Rev. Wm. H. Ryder, Prof. A. S. Welch, Dr. Charles Fowler, Perkins Bass and O. W. Herrick—verily a goodly array of splendid men who have contributed not a little to the greatness of Cook County.

This first report for Cook County, like the present issue, pleads for school libraries and for the adornment of school houses. "The school house should be made as much like the home as possible, the children should love it," sounds familiar enough now. It was not so common forty years ago. And this: "I am often beset by persons requesting a third grade certificate for some special district, at the same time setting forth that the scholars are all small and very backward—they know they can teach them, etc. It is my honest conviction that it requires better qualifications to teach a primary school well than it does to teach a more advanced school; and, had I the employment of teachers, if I should make any difference in salaries, it would be in favor of primary teachers."

This also was very advanced ground forty years ago, and speaks volumes for the splendid work of the first Cook County Superintendent.

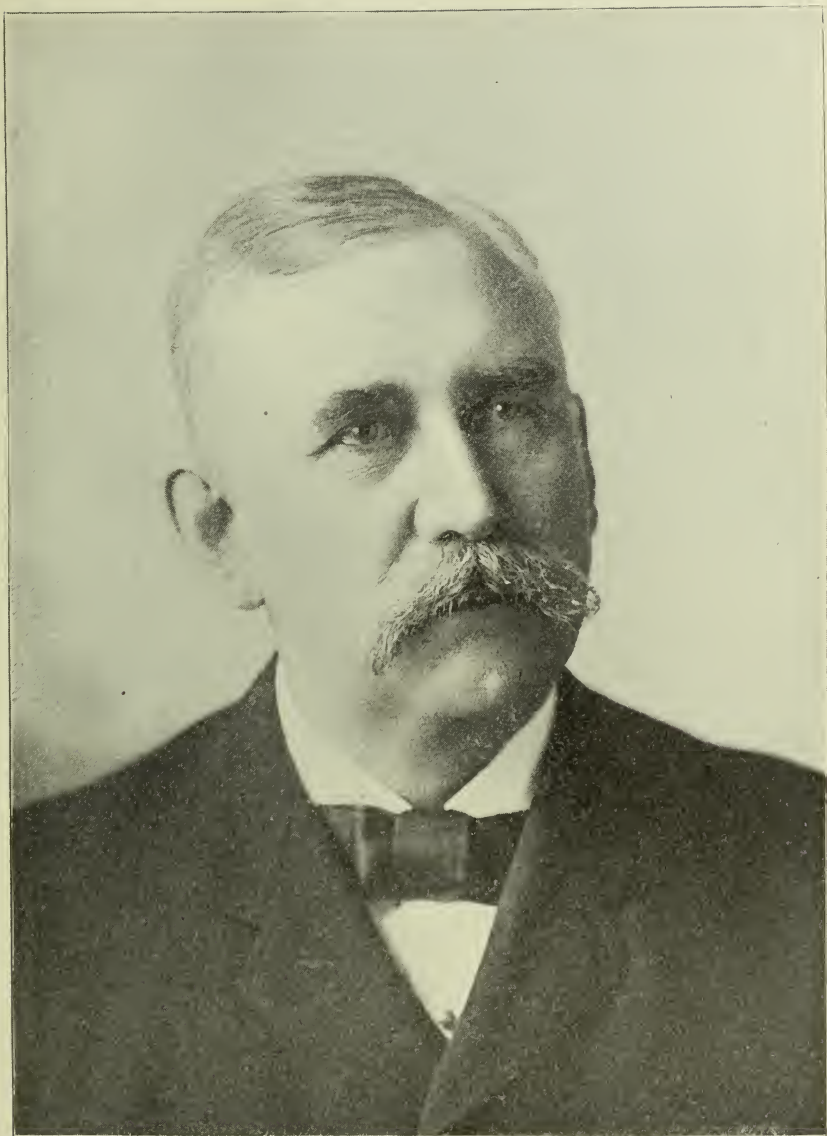

ALBERT G. LANE,
Cook County Superintendent of Schools, 1869 to 1873 and 1877 to 1891.
Chicago City Superintendent of Schools, 1891 to 1898.

There are three pages of statistics from which the following significant items were taken: The whole number of graded schools in the county, including Chicago, in 1862 was 23; the whole number of teachers in all of the schools was 501; the whole number of scholars in attendance, 25,308; and, strange to say, of these 13,646 were boys and 11,662 girls; in thirteen of the districts no schools were maintained; Chicago had 17 schools, with 16,941 scholars in attendance. The highest salary paid a male teacher was $160 per month; the highest paid a female, $50 per month. The lowest monthly salary paid a male teacher was $12 per month; to a female, $7 per month; the average salary paid male teachers, $30.75; the average paid females, $18.66. This for the entire county. In Chicago the average salary paid males was $99, and to females $35. The principals were all men, and no other men were employed except in the high school. The amount of money expended for school libraries in the entire county for the year was $11; the entire expenditure for schools, including buildings and grounds, was $170,854; for the school year ending June 30, 1898, was $7,676,079; the amount paid for school libraries was $53,788.

Among those who obtained their first certificates from Mr. Eberhart were Frances Willard, Bishop Chas. Fowler and Bishop Vincent.

The second County Superintendent in Cook County was Albert G. Lane, who was elected in 1869. After one term of four years he was succeeded by Geo. D. Plant, who served until 1877. Mr. Plant is at present principal of the Seward School, Chicago.

Mr. Lane again assumed the duties of the office December 1, 1877, and served continuously until December, 1891. His long and splendid service to the schools of Cook County needs no word of commendation. That service is better known and more universally approved than that of any other officer the county has ever had. The peculiar nobility of Mr. Lane's character shone forth in connection with the failure of the Franklin Bank in which nearly $30,000 of the school moneys were deposited. It would have been an easy matter for Mr. Lane to avoid replacing this money. Not one man in a hundred would have replaced it, but he never questioned his responsibility. What property he had saved was turned over, and for fifteen long years he toiled and saved to make good the deficiency, until every dollar was restored to the school fund. This sort of manhood in a school master counts for vastly

ORVILLE T. BRIGHT,
Cook County Superintendent of Schools, December 1, 1891, to ——— more than a college education. As regards schools the great question is what a man is rather than what he knows. It takes character to develop character.

In 1891 Mr. Lane resigned his office and succeeded George Howland as City Superintendent of Chicago whose schools he administered most successfully for seven years. He was succeeded in the county office by the present incumbent.

I wish to acknowledge my profound obligations to my assistants in the office for loyal and efficient service. Their work has been mainly with the ungraded schools and with the officers of those schools. Of their devotion, skill and intelligence I cannot speak in too high terms. Mr. Downey has been Assistant Superintendent of Cook County for the past nine years; Mr. Farr for the past eight years.

To you, gentlemen of the Board of County Commissioners, I express my sincere thanks for your uniform courtesy and kind consideration during the past two years; and more than that, to every member of the Board of Commissioners for the past seven years.

Respectfully submitted,

ORVILLE T. BRIGHT,

County Superintendent of Schools.
